PROGRAMS AND TARGETS

The Summer School proposes, starting from the Roman legal experience, the study of the legal institutes of the private sector that represent the historical and dogmatic roots of the contemporary legal experience of the contemporary Europe, with particular attention to the discipline of bonds and contracts and with the aim to highlight not only the lines of continuity but also the profound differences between the Roman conceptions and the dogmas of the present.

The perspectives suggested by the awareness that, in the political reality of the European Union and especially in the future of the future, there is a need for a concrete unification of European contract law.

Starting from the Roman legal experience and illustrating the elaboration and interpretation of Roman sources in medieval science, the formative and structural path of the solutions prepared by the jurists in their reflection on the principles of the subject matter of bonds and contracts will be reconstructed, welcomed by modern codifications. The general principles of the contractual disciplines of Italy, France, Germany/Austria will be analyzed; Spain/Portugal, Hungary and Poland, and the reverberations of European contractual matters in the Latin American countries, with particular regard to Brazil, will be highlighted. Attention will also be paid to the analysis of the articles of today's unification of European contract law, with particular reference to the Principles of European Contract Law (PECL) and the Draft Common Frame of Reference.
